Aerial invasion

As climate change forces native species further north, new invaders from the south risk finding a rich new habitat.

Stranded in beach

Rough was whipped by strong winds, possibly a result of Cyclone Ophelia, which was affecting the area and painting the sea with waves. The winds were strong enough to knock down a few buildings along the coast.

Foxes as pets

A growing number of Londoners are keeping foxes as pets. These animals are known for their intelligence, energy, and loyalty. They are often seen exploring the city streets, chasing after birds, and even catching small rodents.

Change the veena's design

A change in the veena's design can be observed in the way the strings are anchored. The new design allows for better sound projection and a richer timbre. This change is important for the veena players to adapt to, as it requires them to develop new techniques and playing styles.

Feebe, the star

Cyrus. The Incredible Journey, a film adaptation of the popular book, features Feebe as a star in the movie. The character of Feebe is shown as a brave and adventurous protagonist who must overcome various obstacles to save his friends.

A tradition that needs to be enlivened and encouraged

It’s true not just in the case of the veena, even the makers of the fiddle, harmonium and flute are in dire straits (“Hands modified into another profession,” says K Bhara-

Do away with ‘no-access’ zones

Located in Tamil Nadu, Gulf of Mannar National Park consists of a group of 25 islands. The state government declared the area as a marine national park in 1983, under the Wildlife (Protection) Act. This decision was later upheld by the Supreme Court in 2002.

Marine Protected Areas were supposed to keep the seas from being over-harvested, but they are hurting humans now, says G Saravanavan (marine) wildlife sanctuary (Mahabubabad) and Sundareswaran national park and biosphere reserve (Sudan). The Andaman and Nicobar islands also have several protected areas.

In any case, this advice is not unique to the human species.
